

2. Comprehension: Reading Comprehension

Given below are some statements from the essay. If you agree, give reasons; if you don't, state the reasons.

Nearly all the sports practiced nowadays are competitive. International sporting contests lead to orgies of hatred.

Even a leisurely game like cricket, demanding grace rather than strength, can cause much ill-will.

In countries like India and Burma, it is necessary at football matches to have strong cordons of police to keep the crowd from invading the field.

Even then the spectators don't intervene physically they try to influence the game by cheering their own side and 'rattling' opposing players with boos and insults. Playing games is simply a waste of time.

Games have been built up into a heavily financed activity.

Big-scale sport is merely another effect of the causes that have produced nationalism.

Answer the following

What is sport? Try to define it. Who is a sportsman?

What is sportsmanship?

What is meant by 'the sporting spirit'?

What is the difference between 'sporting' and 'sportive'?

Make a list of the sports mentioned in the essay. (There are more than ten.)

Do you regard the following as sports? Give reasons for your answer.

Chess, dancing, monopoly, knitting, fishing, cooking, bird-watching, motor-racing, gardening, shooting.

What are the differences between sports and hobbies? What is your hobby? What is body-line bowling?

What is 'ferreting for rat'?

What are your favorite outdoor activities?

What are your favorite week-end-activities?

Match the activity/sport with its dominant criterion.

Martial arts gives a great sense of rhythm

Parachuting builds up stamina

Dancing gives moderate exercise and helps mobility Boxing teaches self-discipline and self-defense Ping-pong develops a sense of awe and mental peace Jogging develops muscular strength

Say whether you like or dislike each one of the activities/sports that you like/dislike. Make use of the list given above and words like relaxing, boring, disgusting, interesting and exciting.

a) playing cards b) digging in the garden c) mountain-climbing d) washing dishes

e) weight-lifting f) wrestling g) shopping h) gymnastics i)

learning languages j) rowing k) visiting relatives

Now give one reason for each of the activities/sports that you like/dislike. Make use of the list given above and words like relaxing, boring, disgusting, interesting, and exciting.

Example: I like washing dishes because it is relaxing.

a) Complete with be, camp, do, drive, eat, get, go, lose, make, meet, spend, stay, watch, wear.

TEST YOUR PERSONALITY

Do you enjoy _____people?

Do you dislike _____late for appointments

Do you like _____expensive clothes?

Do you ever risked _____to parties to _____TV at a home? Have you ever risked _____your job?

Do you enjoy _____new friends? Do you like __cars?

Do you prefer _____at a hotel to _____in a tent? Do you like __Chinese food?

Do you enjoy _____money?

Do you enjoy _____unusual things?

Do you like _____up early?

(If you have answered at least six questions with YES, proceed further.)

Fill in the blanks, with for, from, about, in, of, up, by, to, at. (Some are to be used more than once.)

Are you good organizing?

Are you usedworking hard?

Are up fond solving problems?

Are you interested _____ dealing with people? Are you used ___making decisions?

Are you tired _____being one in a crowd? Are you good _____working with numbers? Are you willing to give _____smoking?

Can you influence people _____convincing them?

Do you take pleasure _____bringing people together? Can you prevent others _____cheating your friends?

Are you capable _____attracting crowds _____blah - blahing?

Can you make use of your experience gained ___blah-blahing _____selling things?

Are you excited _____going places?

Do you feel confident _____traveling alone?

(If you have answered all the questions with yes, call us today! Bell School of Management, Tel. 868084.)

GRAMMER GUIDE

Infinitive Phrases as Direct Objects:

Type I Examples: They hope to win the game.

He claims to be a sportsman.

(In such cases, the 'subject' of the infinitive is the same as the subject of the main verb, e.g. the subject of hope is the same as the 'subject' of win.)

Answer the questions, using a an infinitive phrase as the direct object

What do you hope to do after you graduation?

What do you sometimes neglect to do?

What do you sometimes refuse to do?

What do you sometimes offer to do? What do you sometimes pretend to do? What are the thing you can't afford to do? What are the things you fail to do?

Infinitive Phrases as Direct Objects: Type II

Examples: The coach told us to an attacking game.

· The spectators encouraged us to misbehave.

In such cases, the 'subject' of the infinitive is not the same as the subject of the main verb; the subject of told is the coach but the 'subject' of play is us which is also the object of told.

2.7 Answer the following questions, using the verb + object + to = verb.

Who encouraged you to study

English? What to do your teachers urge you to do? Who reminds you to do your work?

What do your parents warn you not to do?

What do your friends persuade you to do?

Notes

George Orwell expresses his views on competitive sports in the lesson War Minus Shooting, which also appeared as an article in Tribune in December 1945. He says that, in good olden days that is during Roman Times and in 19th century sports were not taken seriously. Some games like fishing, cockfighting and ferrying of rats did exist long ago, but they were unorganized and were meant only for the rustic communities. The posh and the elite never gave any importance to games. Dr. Arnold, the founder of the Modern Public School, viewed games as a more waste of time. It was later felt that some type of group activity is essential for the outlet of physical strengthen and sadistic impulses. It is this opinion which brought the existence of a more decent word "Sports".

Then chiefly in England and in United States games were built up into a heavily financial activity and attracted the crowds by rousing savage passions and this infection spreaded country to country. Games are taken seriously in London and New York. In the middle ages they were played with much physical brutality and were not mixed up with politics nor a cause of group hatreds.

Organized sports then started gaining momentum and flourished in the Urban Communities also. The English public schools in the later part of the last century became centers of several important sports. Countries like Rome, Byzantium, London, New York, games were taken seriously. New sports namely walking, swimming, snowballing, climbing and finding houses made inroads in different parts of the world. England and United States witnessed costly games in savage passions aroused.

Sports then began to be linked with nationalism. At the same time they were also said to be the cause of politics, brutality and group hatred. Rivalry began to develop especially when the games were played between Jews and Arabs, Germans and Czechs, Indians and British, Italians and Yugoslavs, Russians and Poles. Sports have become one of the main reasons of international rivalry. The author suggests that instead of making things worst by sending forth a team of eleven men, labeled as national champions to do battle against some rival team and allowing it to be felt on all sides that which ever nation defeated "will loose face".

The huge crowds in Boxing, Football and Cricket matches started rattling the opposite players with boos and insults. Harsh and fiercer passions began to be aroused in England and also several other countries. Even a gentleman's game like cricket, which is also called a leisurely game was under question.

The controversy was witnessed over bodyline bowling and over the rough tactics of Australian team that visited England in 1921. A boxing match between white and colored boxers gave a horrible sight. In countries like India or Burma, it is necessary at foot ball matches to have strong cordons of police to keep the crowd from invading the field. The first big foot ball match that was played in Spain about some time ago led to an uncontrollable riot.

George Orwell says that with the passage of time International sports became a mimic warfare. Sports began to be equated with war minus shooting. Instead of promoting good will, they were resulted in much hatred and further fostering the rivalry among the nations. Sports have become competitive when they are played to win and the game has little meaning unless it is won. As soon as the question of prestige arises players do every technique to win the game as I think that their countries dignity would be lost if that are lost. The attitude of the spectators is also important in creating much rivalry they forget that victory gained through cheating is meaningless. Spectators definitely try to influence the game by cheering their own side by insulting opposite players with boos and insults. The authors feels that modern games have abundant hatred, jealousy, boastfulness and ignoring of all the rules and wit nessed of all the violence. The author strongly feels that it is a pressing need to inculcate sports man spirit among all of us to promote peace and goodwill through sports.